In view of these results we have still another proof of the fact that for sea sickness and gastro-intestina troubles the preparations of Neclaudra Amara can be easily employed with sure effect.

Of the 7th October, 1935, the surgeon of the Army Medical Corps, Dr. Henrique Manueou, wrote us as follows —1 certify that when on board ships of war, I have had occasion to use the Tincture of Nectandra Amarın of Antero Leivas against cases of sickness, and always with execleut results. ### RIVER PLATE ITEMS.

— A Buenos Aires telegranı of the 7th says that Dr. Carlos Pellegrini telegraplis that the Quirnal is disposed to facilitate the emigration of one million Italians to southern Argentina within a period of six years.

— The Indians who have taken a hand in the civil war in Bolivia are described, in Buenos Aires, as assassins and cannibals, Very likely; but how does the white man figure in this business? Is he very much bet-ter than the Indian?

— A Bienos Aires telegram of the Sth says that a colonel and four captains of the German army have been contracted for to fill positions as director and professors of the Argentine military school. This is good policy in one sense, but it hardly looks like disarmament.

— There has arisen a conflict between the president and congress of Paragnay over the civil narriage question. Congress has passed a law authorizing civil marriage, but the president has postponed its execution. Later, however, congress has yielded to the arguments of the president, and the act is shelved for the present.

— If it be true that the Argentine government has requested Messrs. Krupp to send the material for the construction of a light railway instead of munitions of war, General Roca is to be warmly congratulated on taking so very sensible and so very hencical a step. It is well known that he was altogether opposed to a quarrel with Chili, and that his influence was exerted to bring about an arrangement. We hope he has decided, as far as in him lies, to get out of unwise military and naval expenditure, and to devote his energies to the development of the country. — The Statist.

— An engagement is a mounced in Monte-video, by which the daughter of one of the well known 'Anglo-Urugnayan families be-comes the bride of a South American diplomat. The parties to this contract are Mr. Albert Fiallo, the Brazilian minister to Urugnay, and Miss Sarah Hamilton, the wedding having been fixed to the take place about the end of luly. July.

—What about Ibarreta? Where are all the expeditions that were talked of to find him in the Pilcomayo region? There seems to be no definite information anywhere about the unfortunate explorer and the only man that has not yet returned and given up the quest, is Andersen, the Norwegian who left here months ago to go up the Berunejo in a canoc accompanied by some Indians with whom he is well acquainted. — Times, Buenos Aires.

acquainted. — Times, Buenos Aires.

— The heavy storms of wind and rain which passed over the Argentine republic at the beginning of last month and last three days have now been found to have caused tremendous losses in the wheat-growing districts in the province of Sana Fé. The official report which was published at the end of the month estimated the loss at 250,000 tons and it is feared that when the extent of the loss is finally known, the damage will exceed 300,000 tons. 100,000 tons 300,000 tons.

— Gabriel Etchegaray, the mirderer of Mr. John B. Wanklyn in broad daylight and in the most public thoroughfare on the 4th March, 1897, who was instantly arrested with the smoking revolver in his hand and confessed his crime, was only found guilty on the 22nd March, 1899—two years and 18 days after he confessed his guilt. He is condemned to indefinite imprisonment but will doubtless be liberated on some glorious Argentine aniversary. In Europe he would have been executed 18 months ago.

— The native press does not know what is

The native press does not know what as good for the country and is complaining that the war office has discharged 700 men from the arsenal. There remain 300 men and these are quite enough, whilst the possibility of doing away with the stores departments in Tucannan and Mendoza is spoken of. We only hope that these economies may be carried and as it is a crying shame that thousands should be spent monthly on these departments which are by no means of origent necessity. The money can well be employed elsewhere. We are exceedingly pleased to note this move on the part of the President, as also the countermanding of the order for Krupp gnus in Enrope, the money being employed in a light railway, which we have reason to believe will be used in Patagonia. — Tiber, Buenos Aires.

THE MISSPELLED TALE.

[This pretty little story is reproduced here for the benefit of those who are studying the English language.—Eds. News.]

A little buoy said: "Mother deer, May Eye go out to play? The son is bright, the heir is clear; Owe, mother, don't say neigh!"

"Go fourth, my sun," the mother said.

The aut said: "Take your slay—
Your gneiss knew sled, awl painted read,

But dew knot lose your weigh."

«Ah, know,» he cried, and sought the street, With bart sew full of glee; The wether changed, and snow and sleet And reign fell steadily.

Threw snowdrifts grate, threw watery pool He fine with mite and mane.

Said lie: "Though Eye would walk by rule,
Eye am not rite, 'tis plane.

«Eye'd like to meat sum kindly sole, For hear gun dangers weight, And yonder stairs a treacherous whole Two sloe has been my gate.»

«A peace of bred, a gneiss hot stake, Eye'd chews if Eye were home, This crewel fate my hart would brake— Eye love not thus to Rome.

<sup>6</sup>Eye, week and pail, have mist my rode,<sup>8</sup> But hear a carte came passed— He and his sled were safely toad Back to his home at last.

UNCLE ABNER'S RECOLLEC-TIONS.

FIRST IMPRESSIONS OF RIO.

The great majority of men, said Uncle The great majority of men, said Uncle Abuer, are in the habit of looking upon religion as au abstract thing, a belief based upon fixed dogmas, a faith clearly defined and unchangeable, a rule of life defined and unchangeable, a rule of life as rigid and unchanging as the laws which govern the universe. And yet, when we compare the methods employed by different men to give expression to their religious beliefs, we find a variety almost as great as the number of men concerned. The dogma may remain the same, but the practice varies with the man. Suppose John Knox could be landed in Rio de Janeiro, would be admit that there is any religion he admit that there is any religion here? Or suppose one of Rio's favorite clergymen could be transplanted to some Scotch Presbyterian hamlet, or to a Puriscoren presoytenan naminet, or to a Puri-tan village in New England, on a Sun-day, what would be his opinions? The personal factor is a much larger one than we are accustomed to think—so large in fact, that I am not sure there are not as many distinct religious in the world as there are reasoning individuals, dividuals.

Of course when I landed in this city, I had something of the Puritan's conception of religion, and his reverence for sacred things. I had inherited it. My beliefs might not have been quite in step with these feelings, but that made no diference. To me. Smday was a day for rest and worship, a church was a sacred edifice, a church service was a gathering of devont men and women for a pre-eminently solemn purpose. I had inherited these feelings, and somehow I never reacted against them, nor saw anyone violate them, without feeling a shock. It was something like my experience with thunder storms when a small boy. Somehow I had come to believe that if one spoke alond when it yas thundering, the lightning would strike him, and I miconsciously kept silence at such times long after? Of course when I landed in this city would strike him, and I unconsciously kept silence at such times long after I knew better. And the shock was distinctly felt long after I knew to a certainly that the thunderbolt did not fall upon the pnny head that dared to speak when the rumbling voice of Jove was if the air.

You can easily imagine, then, how the free and easy customs in these latitides impressed me. I found that latitides impressed me. I found that Sunday was the liveliest day of the whole week. In those days the retail shops were nearly all open on Sundays, as vere all the saloons, vendas, kiosques, etc. It was the accepted day for horse races, boat races and cock-fights; for opening the sessions of the General Assembly and for school festivities, dedications of whillings and insurgurating. tions of buildings and inaugurating things. And it was the chosen day for elections, which were largely held in those days in the churches. The poor old Emperor always had something to do on Sunday, and he used to sleep at his post in doing it. It was anything but a day of rest; if was a day of recreation, of dis i pation, of festivity and fatigue. The little venda boy began his work earlier and worked later thau on any other day in the week, and the tobac-conist and bar-tender counted up more cobse at night than for any other two days.

I was not greatly impressed with the appearance of the churches, for there was something in the patched and heavy-looking plastered exteriors which vulgivisted what works to be an element of the charge of the cha looking plastered exteriors which vulgarized what ought to be an elevated sentiment. When you walk through the massive portals of St. Paul's and look up to the ceilings far above, you feel as though you were being lifted above the common things of life. But I never felt such a sensation on entering the portal of any one of these little plastered churches, whose walls were cracked and patched, and whose interiors were dark and close. There is nothing in such a church to elevate men, nor to inspire them. It is made of broken stone and mortar and plaster like the meanest shop on the street, and it iu-stone and mortar and plaster like the meanest shop on the street, and it inspires just about as much reverence.

The completion of the Candelaria church has of course given Rio something better than what I am criticising, and others are better than the type presented, but there is I think uo disputing the statement that the churches presented, but there is a timber of septime the statement that the churches here are for the most part cheap, tawdry, ngly affairs, structures that belittle the faith they represent.

Like many another stranger, I was struck with the reverence shown by all these in pressing a church entrance—struck with the reverence shown by all classes in passing a church entrance—the mucovering of the head, often the turning of the face reverently toward the high altar, and not infrequently the making of the sign of the cross. Perhaps the most unconsciously reverent people were the lower-class Portuguese, whose display of homage and piety seemed to be perfectly spontaneous and instinctive. Centuries of obedience to the requirements of the church could not fail to make such a people blindly observant of every custom of such a character, and it came as naturally as the simple habits of their plodding lives.

And then, to my horror and mystifiof their plodding lives.

And then, to my horror and mystification, the reverent wayfarer not intrequently supplemented this touching act of homage to the portal of the church, by defiling and dishonoring the edifice when he had turned the corner. How can one account for such a contradiction? What can be the faith, the sentiment, the sincerity of men who can perform two acts so diametrically opposed to two acts so diametrically opposed to each other and almost within the same breath. I'm sure I can't make it out.
It is one of those contradictions of life, which reason fails the explain. I have no business, perhaps, to say that the reverence is a sham which a man shows reverence is a sladin which a but it won't keep step somehow with the lack of reverence which follows.

As for the conduct of worshippers inside, I can hardly be considered a fair judge, for I have visited the churches only ou festa days. Two-thirds of the crowd, at least, are usually black or of mixed blood, and it has always seemed to me that their conception of worship is very much like that of children. They fill the body of the church, laughing, whispering, talking sometimes, pushing here and there, always exhibiting more enriosity than reverence. They are extremely impressionable, but They are extremely impressionable, but They are extremely impressionable, but the impressions soon fade and leave them as they were. And if you look closely, you will nearly always find some kind of a charm suspended from their necks, to bring luck and ward off evil spirits. Evidently their faith in the saints is not altogether sufficient.

I was also impressed with another contrast, but for this explanations are doubtless forthcoming. In the good old times when the soldier, and priest, and adventurer were settling down on the land, the priest seems to have had a thought for the future, and he lost no time in picking out the most desirable localities for his churches and monasteries. With but few exceptions the churches, and monasteries, and convents dating back to the years when the first dating back to the years when the first settlements were fornied, were all located on the best- and most picturesque sites. Think of Rio as a little town hugging the eastern and northern sides of Castle Hill, and straggling around through the narrow gap, between that hill and Santo Antonio Hill. The old wall and moat passed through Rua Uruguayana and down across Rua da Alfandega between Quitanda and Candelaria. In those days the water front was where Rua 1º de Março now runs, and the Cruz dos Militares church was was where Rua is de Marco now thus, and the Cruz dos Militares church was clocated our a rock projecting out into the bay. It was not much of a town pent up within these limits, and a few scattered habitations outside were all scattered habitations outside were all that made up the future capital of Brazil. Back of it were jungle-covered levels, full of swamps and pouds, and to the south of this level ground the forest-clad slopes of the Carioca mountains. And then imagine what must have been the far-seeing acuteness of the priests and monks. The Jesuits established themselves on Castle Hill, where they created a college and planned a great church. The Franciscans located themselves on Santo Antonio Hill, where they built a monastery and church. they built a monastery and church. The Benedictines were a little more ven The Benedictines were a little more venturesome, and wiser as the results have shown, for they went farther afield and took possession of a little hill overlooking the upper bay, on which they built a great monastery. And the Carmelites after building a monastery within the walls, which afterwards became a dependency of the old palace, also ventured outside and located a church and monastery on the shore of the bay a short distance south of the town, and later on a convent on the hillside above, from which an enchanting view, was from which an enchanting view was obtained of the harbor entrance. A little hermitage near the shore of the bay was taken over by the Franciscans about a hundred yeurs after the city was founded, and it became the celebrated Ajuda convent, whose windows in those days looked out upon the sandy beach where the waves broke fresh and strong from the blue sea beyond. It was not on from the blue sea beyond. It was not on a hill, but it stood on the shore of the bay, overlooked the harbor entrance and was surrounded with spacious gardens. The founders of the city, the Sá family, built a little chapel on the summit of Castle Hill, which they dedicated to the patron saint of the city, St. Sebastian, and within which they deposited the bones of Estacio de Sá, who effected the first settlement. This little chapel then became the parish who enected the first sentencial. This little chapel then became the parish church, and a hundred years later the cathedral church. As the city spread out on the level, it was abandoned and then, within the present century was turned over to the Italian Capuchins, who had once resided on the level near the site of the English church, and then finally located themselves on Castle then maily located intenserves on Castie Hill. On the same hill we find the episcopal semiuary and on Conceição Hill the espiscopal residence, overlooking the bay on one side and the city on the

Later on, when the city outgrew its Later on, when the city outgrew its walls and spread ont over the level ground, it absorbed a great number of little hermitages and chapels erected by pious sinners as the price of a life, or of some successful venture. The Candelaria church, to-day the finest religious edifice in Rio de Janeiro, stands upon the site of a chapel erected by a thankful mariner who had been scared out of his reckoning by a great storm at thankful mariner who had been scared out of his reckoning by a great storm at sea. Many of these humble little chapels became churches later on, but the city pressed in against them and they either had no lands to protect themselves with, or else they built on them in order than the contraction of with, or else they built on them in order to acquire a revenue from rentals. And from this it happens that many a church has been swallowed up by the city, and we can see of it only its unpreposessing front. Some of them, like that of S. Pedro, have architectural pretensions which are completely hidden by the surrounding buildings. Even the Candelaria is completely closed in at the sides by commercial houses.

And here is the contrast—the eagerness of the early churchmen to secure commanding sites for their churches to make them dominate their surroundings and the weakness of their success who were content to locate their edifices anywhere and to allow them to be swal, lowed up by secular buildings. The octagonal church on Gloria Hill, which can be seen hy every traveller entering the bay, and by every person going out to the southern districts of the city, is always admired. Its surroundings are picturesque and the little church is made beautiful by them. Compare with this the Roman rotunds of S. Pedro, located in the heart of Rio's busiest commercial district and shut in closely who were content to locate their edifices located in the heart of Rio's busiest commercial district and shut in closely by commercial edifices. No one thinks it beautiful, nor even stops to look at it. And yet, were S. Pedro church located on a site like that which the Gloria church occupies, it would undoubtedly hecome one of the attractions of the city. tions of the city.

building, now wrote to the bishop of London, to know in what manner he should perform the ceremony of consecration; but the bishop's answer did not arrive till the ceremony was over. The directions sent, however, had been anticipated, and the prayers prescribed used, with a particular one composed for the occasion. A guard of police was ordered to attend, as a matter of precantion against any bigoted or evil-sisposed persons who might be inclined to interrupt the service, or disturb a congregation introducing a new religion, to which their prejudices were supposed to be greatly hostile; but no disposition of the kind occurred. On the contrary, the common people conducted themselves with great propriety abroad, and the interior of the church was filled with a numerous assemblage of very respectable Brazilians, who equalhed the Protesiants, as well in numbers as in reverence for the place, by a serious and devont demeanour. A short time after, however, an assualt was made on the church, of a very disagreeable nature. While the clappain was officiating one Sunday morning, a shower of stones was poured into the windows, which shattered all the glass; but, fortunately, the blinks interposed and protected the congregation from any injury. An immediate inquiry was made, and it was found that the outrage proceeded from the house of a Spaniard, who kept a venda near the chaple. His yard was close by one side, and some drunken fellows, who frequented his shop, anused themselves with this attack on the English church. A strong representation was made to the proprietor, who was threatened with the police, and the outrage was never repeated.

The permission of the treaty was recognised and confirmed by the constitutional charter at the revolution, which contains the following passage: — «All other Adjisions (besides the Catholic) are permitted, either in domestic worship, or in particular edifices destined for the perpose, without, however, having any exterior appearance of a temple. ** The repetition of this exception is m

RECENT mails report the death of Mr Henry Jones, who, under his nom de pinne of «Cavendish, was well known to all players of card games. From an early age Mr. Jones showed singular aptitude for the more scientific games at cards, and he was an authority on pastines generally. His death took place on February 10, at his residence, 22 Albion street, Hyde Park, in his sixty-eighth year. «Cavendish, besides being a whist player of the leading rank, and a member of the principal whist clubs, made the rules and game a study. He edited Joseph Bennett's book on Billiards, and was the author of «Whist,» in addition to writing books on Beique, Piquet, and many other games. In fact, he may be said to have been the great authority on almost all table games. Mr. W. T. RIO DE JANEIRO, APRIL 11th, 1899.

IT will appear strange to many of our readers why any person should object to collect accounts at the national treasury. With the Minas and Rio company, the objection is based upon a feeling averse to the rôle of the ordinary creditor who is obliged to spend much time and comply with countless forma-lities in the collection of an account. The money received by the Central railway in payment of freight charges on the Minas and Rio line, is received in trust, and the manner and time of settling monthly accounts of this char-acter have been settled by a formal agreement. To modify this arrange-ment, without the consent of the Minas ment, without the consent of the Minas and Rio company, is clearly illegal, and the minister must know it. Of course, no one would object to collecting an account at the treasury, were it possible to transact the business there promptly and without prejudices. But as every creditor knows, it costs time and money to collect an account at the treasury. It is practically impossible to get an account passed without paying for it. And unless influence and liberal payments are made, delays of every description are interposed. Why should it tion are interposed. Why should it take a year to get a simple account passed—one perhaps for ordinary sup-plies for the Central railway, or for one of the military departments? The actual of the military departments? The actual work on such an account could be done in an hour, and yet there are countless accounts in exercicios findos of this character! To speak plainly, the national treasury is a disgrace to the country! It deals unjustly, harshly, arbitrarily, with the creditors of the state; it takes advantage of its position to force unfair settlements; and it leaves no recourse to the creditor who believes that he has not received his just dues. Many reforms are needed in the administration of this ended; and it may be that the problems which are to decide the status of this continent may be presented to us within a very few years. But at the present hour the people of the United States are indulging in no dream of conquest nor of imposing their authority over the several states of this continent.

There have been and still are some who wish to control the territory through which the Nicaragua canal will pass; but this ambition was blocked many years ago by the Clayton Bulwer treaty, And there are some, also, who dream of a kind of zollverein, a loose kind of confederation, among the several independent states of North and Sonth America, in which the United States shall play the leading rôle. But the great mass of American people have no such plans. They think of these sister countris as independent, with capable governments and each one busy with its own political and industrial problems. The idea of trying to absorb them does not exist, nor will it exist until some strong outside influence shall force it into existence. Destructive wars, continual revolutions, gross violations of years ago by the Clayton Bulwer treaty, tinual revolutions, gross violations of treaties and friendly intercourse, the attempt of some European power to acquire territory through the weakness or venality of some American state-in such case intervention would follow, and that might lead to suzerainty or absorption. The future, however, lies as much in the hands of these several states as in those of the United States, and Dr. Joaquim Nabuco will be rendering iucalculable service if he succeeds in awakening his countrymen to that fact. By purifying, strengthening and elevating their own government, by developing their own industries and commerce, and by educating and invigorating themselves, they will be making it difficult for any outside power to naura their liberties. to usurp their liberties.

Our colleague of The Church Echo, it seems to us, has laid limiself open to the charge of unfairness. He first invites discussion of the question of arithalism, and then, when the discussion breaks out in another journal he not only deprecates it, but even declines to publish letters of the subject. And then, to make the matter worse, he editorially censires the authors of certain letters, and copies a discussion of the subject of saltar lights which bears strongly on one side of the question. We have made it a rule never to criticise a person, or subject, without leaving our columns open for a reply. Any other course would be unfair. If we condenn Methodism, we are under obligations, in our opinion, to publish the defence which any Methodism used in the can not be dealing fairly with his readers, it seems to us, unless he gives the non ritualists a hearing. We have no interest in the subject one way or the other, but we like to see a public journal deal impartially with its readers.

It deals unjustly, harshly, arbitrarily, with the creditors of the state; it takes advantage of its position to force unfair settlements; and it leaves no recourse to the creditor who believes that he has not received his just dues. Many reforms are needed in the administration of this government, but it must be confessed not one is more urgent than those required in the administration of this government, but it must be confessed not one is more urgent than those required in the national treasury.

The discussion which Dr. Joaquim Nabuco has raised in regard to the future destinies of this continent, may be neither untimely nor unprofitable, providing it will lead to a thoughful consideration of the situation, but it ought not to be overlooked that the people of the United States have no ambitions in the direction suggested. Cecil Rhodes holds no brief from the United. States, and he gives us only the opinions of one man. Benjamin Kidd, also, has published what he considers will be the ultimate destiny of the tropical regions of the earth. It may be that the predictions of these men will come true, but that is a matter for the distant future to solve, and need not enter into any diplomatic programme of to-day. It is true that history is sometimes made with startling rapidity—just as it was in the Spanish-American war just

CHURCH MATTERS. Rio, 6th April, 1899.

To the Editor.

To the Editor.

Rio, 6th April, 1899.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir.—It would appear that the discussion which has been apparing in your columns relative to the adopt of or fitnalistic practices in our church, has quite exhausted itself. I san very glad of it, Can we not now drop the subject and go on our way?

Our church was founded by, the British residents of this city about eightly years ago, assisted, I have been informed, by a small tax levied for a time on British shipping. It was a consular chaplaincy for many years, and then the support of the church reverted to the British residents. The property does not belong to the Church of England, but to our local organization. But we are communicants in the Church of England and must conform to its requirements. All this seems clear to me.

Now I believe that we have the right to choose any form of worship authorized by the Church of England, simply becamse we own and support the church, and this was done many, many years ago. At the last general meeting this choice was reaffirmed by an overwhelming majority. And our chaplin says that the wishes of the congregation sre his wishes! Now, it seems to me, that closes the discussion. Instead of wrangling further, let us unite to make our church what it abould be—a fit meeting place for those who deaire to worship God according to the requirements of the Church of England. If there are only yo or 40 of as, so be it. If the absentee majority is stopping away because the service is not ornate enough, let them tell us so and then we can decide what to do.

Respectfully yours.

Respectfully yours.

To the Editor of the «Rio News.»

To the Editor of the "Rio News."

Sir.—The editor of The Church Echo certainly runs rot in the April number over his congregational mare's nest of 1200. I have read and re-read the third paragraph-with particular pleasure; it is such a gem of lucidity and plurasing.

But, after all, what does it amount to? Parturund monles, nascitur ridiculus mus. I never made any question of the number of British subjects residing sin and immediately about Rio. What I did take exception to was the spossible congregation of 1200% and the writer of the editorial has failed to prove me in the wrong.

With the rest of the editorial I have nothing to do. It is waste of time to trail red herrings across the scent, so far as I am concerned. But I would again like to sympathise with our Chaplain.

But I would again like to sympathese wan our Chaplain.
Our mentor has now taken him in hand, and he has to see to the continuous absence of those 130, m-a task he is likely to get through somewhere about the Greek calemls.
One last word about non-attendance at church. May I wenture to him to the editor of The Church Echo in Mr. Chucks's most delicate manner possible, that people who live in glass houses should not throw stones? Let sleeping dogs lie.

From the beginning of last July up to the 3rd inst. the state government of Balia and São Francisco railway to 8,759 refigges. To this it may be added that many other refugees have been given free passages on the Balia and São Francisco railway to 8,759 refigges. To this it may be added that many other refugees have been given free passages by the Central Baliar railway, without any expense to the state.

—The United States gunboat aWilningtow having left Manaos to ascend the upper Amazon, the newspapers of Pará are raising the question whether permission has been obtained or not. Some timid patriots are asserting that the gunboat will make soundings, and chart the course of the river. Why, we can not imagine! The aWilningtoms is seeking commercial infornation and is going to Iquitos after it.

—The Gazeta do Povo of Campos says that the Bezamat municipal reconval pain and ilegally, and gives a list of the payments made. A chance to spend the public money seems to be the chief end of political ambition now a days, and it would be strange indeed were the Bezamat clique to miss the opportunity. While Dr. Bezamat was talking political philosophy, his relatives, protegés and infinate friends would be quite sure to be filling their pockets from the nunicipal treasury.

—The Jornal do Bazil published a dispatch from its correspondent in S. Paulo on the 6th inst, in which he denounced the arbitrary action of the director of the Hospedaria de Immigrantes there in keeping prisoners 25 colonist families, who arrived by the steamer Minas at their own expense. The correspondent in S. - The new Argentine minister, D. Manoel Gorostiaga, was formally presented to the President on the 7th inst.

An ensign accused of deserting during the war against the Bahia fanatics has been sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

The well-known clown, Frank Brown, will open with his circus on Friday next at the S. Pedro de Alcantara theatre. We hope he will have a successful stay in Rio as he richly deserves it.

- Complaints are made that the river run-ning down through Larangeiras is very dirty. It always is! It is a public receptacle of all kinds of rubbish, and when the season is hot and dry it is a focus of infection.

The Chilian consul-general at this port, D. Agostinho Violier, left for Buenos Aires on the 7th, on his way home. The consultate will be under the direction of his vice-consul. Sr. Henrique Romaguera, during his absence

- It is amounced that the Bolivian minister to Brazil, Dr. Paravicini, who has been or ganizing affairs on the Rio Acre, left for this capital on the 28th ult. It is said that he has only very recently heard of the revolution in Bolivia.

Ou the 7ll inst. autograph letters were presented to President Campos Salles by the British and Spanish ministers from the sovereigns of their respective countries, congratulating him on his assumption of the presidence. presidency.

— Minister Murtinho has telegraphed to Matto Grosso suggesting that the gubernatorial election held on March 1 shall be annulled. This, he says, is in his opinion the first step towards a satisfactory solution of the crisis in that state.

— The reports given of the salt bushoforage plant which has recently been introduced from Australia into the Argentine republic are so satisfactory that it would be well for some enterprising agriculturist to experiment on bad lands in Brazil with this new fodder.

—Amongst those who were on the sick list during the past week was Mr. P. W. Barrow, the managing director of the Leopoldian railway. Having a slight fever, he pradently went to the Strangers' Hospital where good treatment brought him around, and we are glad to inform our readers that he is now consulescent.

—In view of the publicity given to the circumstance that there are not dinner basins enough in the casa de detenção for all the prisoners, the minister of justice telegraphed down from Petropolis on Saturday authorizing the purchase of two hundred. —The removal of the naval arsenal has lately been made the subject of a consultation of the general officers of the navy, the minister of marine favoring the choice of some point farther up the bay. Of the ten admirals consulted, five favored the selection of some place within the bay of Rio de Janeiro, while the others were divided between three localities outside. On Saturday last they visited Ilha de Boqueirafo for the purpose of investigating its suitability for an arsenal, but it is said they are not in favor of that locality.

— Some days ago a part of the press of this city asserted that in Matto Grosso the contending parties had strived at an agreement on the basis, suggested by minister Murtinlo, of the annulment of the gubernatorial election held on the 1st ult. It appears, however, from a statement published yesterday by three Matto Grosso congressmen that the assertion is unfounded. From all accounts, the situation of that inland state is critical, and a collision between the followers of Senator Generoso Fonce and Minister Murtinlio may occur at any moment.

Brindle, the well-known military chaplain who recently retired, to the coadjutor-bislopric of Westminster and state that he was the first admitted to the presence of the Pope after the recent illness. We also see that Dr. Richard Garnett, the distinguished litterateur, resigned his position as keeper of printed books in the British Museum after 49 years of service in that institution. Dr. Garnett is father-inlaw to Mr. Guy B. Hall, the editor of the Church Echo of this city.

Church Echo of this city.

The casa de detenção is becoming notorious for bad administration and disorder. There are about 600 persons in the place besides the officials and guards, and it is said that there are not dishes enough to serve out the food to such a number. In addition frequent complaints are made of the food, and the only way the prisoners have to enforce their complaints in that of making an infernal noise: And this they trequently do. On the 7th the noise became so frightful that the officer in charge threatened to throw dry lime into the cells if quiet were not restored.

lime into the cells if quiet were not restored.

—During the second half of February, according to the official report just published, there were 670 deaths, 530 births, and 76 marriages in this city. There were also 3,944 port arrivals and 4,100 departures. For the whole mouth the deaths numbered 1,360 at an average rate of 29 per 1000 per annum, the births 1,108, and marriages 206. There were ostillbirths during the month, which are not included in the preceding totals. Of the deaths, yellow fever is credited with 170, small-pox 10, measles 2, beri-heri 20, diph'heria 1, influenza 3, typhoid fever 15, pernicious fever 105, other malarial causes 85, and pulmonary consumption 199.

— Before our next number is out, the cricket senson of 1899 will have been inaugurated here by the Paysanda Cricket Club on Sunday 16th inst. on their own grounds by a match which is practicully against all comers. We hope the weather will be propititions enough to admit of the presence of fair spectators. The Rio Cricket and Athletic Association open their cricket season on the 3rd proximo, when the sport will be in full swing. Some of those who distinguished themselves at the wickets last year will be missed this season, but enough are left of the best men to ensure good cricket this year. The chief of police caused to be filed this important official document of Detective Lima, whom at the first fitting opportunity he intends to eulogize. And, indeed, if Lima had only arrested the audacious and impertinent critic, his conduct would have been perfect."

— A large number of friends assembled at the British cemetery at the Gambba, Rio, on Thursday March 23rd to pay the last tribute of respect and sympathy, when the body of Mrs. Catherine Amelia Nathan was laid to rest. Mr. Edwin Hime, wearing the o Tallos, o officiated at the side of the open grave. The service was the burial service used by the West London Synagogue of British Jews. Some of those who stood by the grave-side could not help recalling the fact that Mr. Allan Nathan, whose mother was being buried, had himself officiated some time ago when Mr. Hime was then chief mourner. The service was in unny respects the same as that in use in the Church of England with the addition of prayers for the deceased. Mrs. Nathan was very well-known in Rio, especially to the older English resisents, and when at the close of last year the news reached us that she had passed away during her stay in England, may felt that they had lost a friend by the removal of the kind face so familiar to them.—The Church Echo.

—We are likely to have a very interesting familiar to them.—The Church Echo.

—We are likely to have a very interesting quarrel between the prefect and municipal council. The latter recently passed a resolution withdrawing the authorization given for reforming the contract with the S. Christovão tramway company. The prefect, Dr. Cesario Alvini, immediately vetoed the resolution, characterizing the act as thoughtless, and reflecting rather severely on the council adopted a protest against the language used by the prefect, and two aldernen disburdened themselves of some very unfavorable opinions of him. One of them charged that the prefect is a shareholder in, the S. Christovão company, and also accused him of diverting appropriations to other purposes. For instance, he said that 18,000$ had been appropriated for *refresen-tai@lo,** but he had not spent 185000 on that item. As Dr. Cesario Alvini is an old hand at this kind of warfare, we may expect a lively controversy before the quarrel ends. It will do the public service no good, nor will it improve the reputation of the country, but it may let a ray of light into the dark corners where our political chiefs are accustomed to do their work.

Looking at the board in the British Subscription Library yesterday we were surprised to find that a defaulter was posted. On making enquiries we found it was the first case in 73 years of existence and certainly the only one in the many years we have known and appreciated this excellent institution. We hope for the credit of our book-loving community that the first occurrence of the kind will also be the last.

PUBLICATIONS RECEIVED.

Almanak Laemmerl, 1899. We are indebted to the Companina Typographica do Brazil for a copy of this invaluable publication—the official and only directory of the city of Rio de Janeiro. Under the able direction of Mr. Arthur Sauer the Directory has been greatly improved, and is now as nearly perfect as it is possible to make a directory with the material in hand. As customary the publishers have given is much useful and valuable information, including excliange tables, calendars, tax rates and dates, turbles of weights and uneasures, commercial statistics, and the budget laws adopted at the close of the past year. The publishers will accept our congratulations on the character of the work accomplished, and our thanks for the copy sent to this office.

Business Notes

—By a decree of the 7th inst. the Brasilian ische Elektricals Gesellschaft is authorized to transact business in Brazil.

—The municipal council of S, Carlos do Pinhal, S. Paulo, is intending to call for tenders for sewerage works in that city.

—The sale by auction on the 4th inst. in San-tos, of the assets of the firm of Robertson & Co.. in judicial liquidation, is suid to have produced the total sum of 162,000$.

-It is curious to note that while the Argentine authorities are asking the Brazilian government to take measures to prevent the landing ment totake measures to preven the anothy of animals infected with the carbuncle pest. Brazil ranks as a prohibited country from which cattle can not be exported on account of disease. The Argentine government has given orders to prohibit cattle being introduced into Argentina over the Brazilian frontier.

—Mr. Wilfred A. Schoff, the foreign secretary of the Philadelphia Commercial Museum, is making a tour through South America by way of Colon and Peru and will visit Brazil within the next few months before returning home. His objects are to arrange for the attendance of delegates to the commercial congress in Philadelphia next October, to secure in every country samples of the manufactured goods most in demand, with prices, methods of packing etc, and to arrange with the proper officials of each government to supplement or complete the exhibits of raw products from their countries now at the Museum. -Mr. Wilfred A. —The deficit of the state government of São Paulo was 9,296,055653 in 1897 and 12,994.650548 in 1898, making 22,290,76501 of the two years. During the greater part of this time President Campos Salles was (at least nominally) governor of the state, being consequently responsible for the administration. Instead of relieving himself of responsibility by resigning when he became a candidate for the presidency of the republic he continued to hold office even when, after being elected, he made his trip to Europe.

CASA AMERICANA

Owing to the generous patronage of our American and English friends, we have outgrown our old quaters at 15 A and 21 A Rua da Quitanda and lave been obliged to take a much larger store at No. 15 Rua da Quitanda.

We have added two or three new lines to our stock, among these are the Magee Cook-stoves (for wood or coal) and Oil Cook-stoves.

We have also increased our line of School Supplies and Books and Bicycles and Bicycle Sundries, and from time to time shall add such lines as the public may demand.

We wish to thank our patrons and friends for their generous patronage of the past and assure them that we shall endeavor to fully merit the same in the future.
